

ABSTRACT

A multi-compartment case includes at least two separate compartments. One compartment is of sufficient size to accommodate at least one rifle or shotgun. The case includes 5 at least one further compartment for clothes, boots, gear, etc., having an interior separate from the interior of the gun compartment. Each compartment can be independently opened, with the interiors of the compartments all being isolated from one another when closed.